LAWRENCE LITCHFIELD

AND HIS DESCENDANTS

Lawrence Litchfield the progenitor of the old New England family of Litchfield, was in Plymouth Colony before 1639. He is supposed to have been born in England in the first years of the seventeenth century, - before 1620, perhaps in Kent County.

Diligent search has failed, so far, to reveal the place of his birth, his parentage, or when or in what ship he came to this country. Some have placed the date of his coming as early as 1630, while Morse infers that it was in 1634, and in the same ship which brought Rev. John Lathrop.

Gov. Winthrop's Journal, Sept. 18, 1634, says: "The Griffint and another ship now arriving with about 200 passengers and one hundred cattle, Mr. Lathrop and Mr. Simst two godly

† The Griffin made several trips to America, but her passenger lists have not been discovered. The famous Ann Hutchinson came over at this time. The name of the other ship has not been found.

§ Rev. Zechariah Symmes, son of Rev. William, came to Boston, 1634, and was ordained pastor of Charlestown church, Dec. 22, 1634.—Pope's Mass. Pioneers; p. 444.

^{*} N. E. Historical and Genealogical Register, vol. ix (1855), pages 181 and 209, contains the "Genealogy of the Descendants of Lawrence Litchfield," by Rev. Abner Morse of Sherborn, Mass. This is the only Litchfield Genealogy ever published, covering the different lines of descent from Lawrence Litchfield, and is the basis of the present work.

ministers coming in the same ship." This was largely a company of people from Kent, and most of them settled in Scituate.

The first settlers [of Scituate] were generally men of property. Many of them were scholars and accomplished gentlemen. impressed on their children a love of learning and a refinement of manners that has never wholly disappeared, in the darkest periods of the annals of 'Home.' Sound in their religious faith, taught the value of a good hope towards God by the lessons of persecution, there was not perhaps for two generations a head of a family who did not belong to the church; not a house in which the morning and evening sacrifice of prayer and thanksgiving was omitted. No law was ever needed to induce the people to sustain a sufficient number of excellent free schools, and for more than a century from the settlement, a public grammar school supplied to all who desired it, the means of a more enlarged course of study. While the rigor of the early faith and piety remained, no town set a greater value on the higher branches of education. For a century and a half hardly a foreigner has entered Home. The few who came were soon assimilated to the habits and feelings of a people born, living and dying on the same soil. I can remember twenty families in one section of the town which for seven, eight and nine generations have lived on the same spot; no rare thing in the old countries but quite so in our new and ever moving land. No foreign sources of corruption therefore ever came in to make the sons unworthy to bear the name of their sires. If they have fallen, the root of evil is from within.*

Morse says "With this company Lawrence' Litchfield had numerous connections whom he never forsook and who never forsook him. He must have been at their arrival, a young man and unmarried."

A family tradition has it that Lawrence' came over with John Allen [in the Abigail, in June, 1635], as a youth or young man, unmarried, to whom Allen was to leave his property; but this is probably confused with the fact that John Allen did leave to Josiah, son of Lawrence, some land, in 1661.

^{*} Rev. Charles T. Torrey's "Home [Scituate], or the Pilgrims' Faith Revived" (1844).

Otis, in "Barnstable Families," says that more than one half of the passengers who came in the Hercules* were afterwards inhabitants of Scituate.+

There are various historical accounts (containing many errors) of Lawrence' Litchfield, some of which are quoted below:

Farmer's Genealogical Register (1829), page 180: "Litchfield, Lawrence, Scituate, 1646. There was a Litchfield whose Christian name is not given, who was a member of the artillery company in 1640."

Savage's Genealogical Dictionary (1864): "Lawrence Litchfield, Barnstable, 1640, thought to be progenitor of all his name in N. E., removed after 1643, and in 1646 is found at Scituate; had daughter, Dependence, born 15 Feb., that year; and perhaps, Josiah 1647; but at Barnstable, had daughter, Remember (who Deane [Hist. of Scituate] says, married a Lewis of Barnstable, but I doubt his accuracy); and son, Experience -----. He died 1650, at Scituate and his widow, Judith, perhaps daughter of William Dennis of Scituate, married, that year, William Peaks."

Barry's History of Hanover, Mass., page 349: "Litchfield, Lawrence, was of Barnstable, 1643, and bore arms."

Otis's Barnstable County [Mass.] Families, part II, page 217: "Lawrence Litchfield was one of the company from Scituate who came to Barnstable in the spring of 1639. He settled beside Coggin's (now known as Great) Pond, near the estate of Gov. Hinckley. He did not remain here long. In 1646 he was again in Scituate, where he died in 1650. He is thought to be the progenitor of all of that name now in New England, but none of them are now within the limits of Barnstable," Freeman's History of Cape Cod, vol. ii, page 255: In the list of inhabitants of Barnstable, March 3, 1640, "Laurence Lichfield" is named.

^{*} Hotten's Original Lists, p. xix (introduction) gives the list of passengers, among whom we discover the familiar Scituate names of Tilden, Witherell, Hatch, Hinckley, Cole, Besbeech (Bisbee), Lawis, Sayers (Sears), and Starre, but no Litchfield, or closely allied families. This was in 1635.

The carliest settlement of Scituate, Plymouth county, Massachusetts, the ancestral home of the Litchfields, was about 1628, by William Gillson, Anthony Annable, Thomas Byrd, Nathaniel Thiden, Edward Foster, Henry Kowley and Henry Merritt. In 1633 a regular village was laid out, and in 1636, the town was incorporated. See Deane's History of Scituate, which was reprinted in 1899.

History of Plymouth County, Mass., (D. H. Hurd, 1884), page 410, in sketch of Scituate and South Scituate, by Daniel E. Damon: "Scituate lost many of her early settlers by their removal with Mr. Lothrop in 1639–40 to Barnstable. But when Lawrence Litchfield came from Barnstable to Scituate, a few years later, the loss was largely compensated for. His descendants have probably been more numerous in the town than that of any other family, and have always been honored, influential and public-spirited citizens, impressing themselves strongly in the religious and educational interests of the town."

Deane's Scituate (1831), page 305: "Lawrence Litchfield was in Barnstable, where he bore arms 1643. His children were Experience, Remembrance, Josiah and Dependance; the last being the only birth of the family on our records, (1646), we conclude the others may have been born at Barnstable." Deane also gives a short account of the first two or three generations of Lawrence's descendants, but the data are neither complete nor satisfactory.

Pope's Pioneers (before 1650) of Massachusetts: "Lawrence Litchfield (Leichfield, Lechfield) Scituate. Daw. Dependance born 15 Feb. 1646. Wife Judith, dau. of William Dennis, married after his death, william Peaks; she testified 20 March, 1657–8, that her husband, on his death bed consented that John Allen of Scituate might adopt his son Josias (Josiah)."

When Rev. John Lothrop* came, he found at Scituate friends whom he had known in England. They had built, at the time, nine "pallizado houses," probably structures made of logs, protected by palisades, as temporary residences, which were replaced later by more substantial homes. In 1635–6 there were thirtyone houses built, and in 1637 there was a total number of fiftyone, but that of Lawrence' Litchfield or of a Dennis does not occur in the list given. In Mr. Lothrop's church at Scituate,—the first parish, of which he was the first regularly settled minister (Jan. 18, 1634–5),—there were 63 members, and of these, in 1639, twenty heads of families removed with their pastor to Barnstable and six went later. Lawrence' Litchfield is not named. From these observations it would seem that Lawrence' was not a resident of Scituate until after he had been in Barnstable, or else he was in Scituate but a short time. He may have landed at Boston, gotten acquainted with the Barnstable proprietors, and accompanied them to "Mattakeeset." *

In January, 1637-8, Rev. John Lothrop, Mr. Timothy Hatherly, Anthony Annable and others of Scituate, represented to the Court that they had small portions of land, and petitioned to have the lands set off to them, between the North and South rivers, which was granted. In 1638-9 many meetings were held in Scituate to adopt measures respecting a removal to another plantation. Five days were set apart for humiliation, fasting and prayer for success in their removal. The first fast was kept Feb. 22, 1637-8, and the last June 26, 1639. Several letters signed by Mr. Lothrop, Goodman Annable and others in behalf of themselves and other members of the church. addressed to the governor, stated the grievances under which they were suffering, and asked to be better accommodated in some other part of the colony. At first they proposed to remove to Sippican, now Rochester (Mass.), and at the January Court the lands at that place were granted to them. But many were opposed to going to Sippican, preferring a residence at Mattakeese, now a part of Barnstable. But the lands at the latter place had previously been granted to Mr. Richard Collicut and others of Dorchester; but in June, 1639, this grant was revoked and an opening was made for Mr. Lothrop and his church. In the previous May, Rev. Joseph Hull of Weymouth, and Mr. Thomas Dimmock and others, removed to Mattakeese, and commenced the settlement of the town. After the revocation of the grant to Mr. Collicut, the Court, June 4, 1639, old style, corresponding to June 14, new style, granted the lands at Mattakeese to Messrs, Hull and Dimmock as a committee for themselves and their associates, and incorporated the town, naming it Barnstable. June 13, 1639, a fast was kept by Mr. Lothrop's church to implore 'God's directing and providing for us in the place of removal,' and on the 26th of the same month another fast was kept 'For the presence of God in mercey to goe with us to Mattakeese.' Mr. Lothrop and a majority of his church removed from Scituate to Barnstable, Oct. 11, 1639. On their arrival, the first settlers had built themselves houses, and many of Mr. Lothrop's church found dwellings provided for them Goodman Annable did not remove with the first company, but some few months after,† Barnstable, Plymouth county, Massachusetts, was incorporated as a town, in June, 1639. Thirteen families had then settled in the town, viz., Rev. Joseph Hull, Thomas Shaw, Austin Bearse, Henry Coggin, James Hamlin,* William Tilley, Thomas Allyn, Lawrence Litchfield, Thomas Huckins, John Smith, Roger Goodspeed, John Scudder, and Nathaniel Bacon. None of these names occur as the householders of Scituate in Sept., 1634.

Deyo's Hist. of Barnstable County (1890), vol. i, page 394, in its account of the village of Barnstable, says:

Like some other villages of the county, the settlement of this was contemporaneous with that of the town, the first settlement of the plantation being the nucleus of the present village. In 1640, when their first dwellings had been erected, Rev. John Lothrop was where the present hotel of Mr. Eldridge stands, nearly opposite the court house; Henry Rowley, near Mr. Lothrop's; Isaac Wells, near where the court house stands; George Lewis, Sr., near the site of the Ainsworth house; Edward Fitzrandal on the corner by the Hyannis road; Henry Cobb, near the present Unitarian church, and the hill was named Cobb's hill from this fact; Richard Foxwell, near the present Agricultural hall; Bernard Lumbert, further east near the old mill; and Nathaniel Bacon, John Smith, Roger Goodspeed, Thomas Huckins, John Scudder, Samuel Mayo, and Thomas Dimock were also in the eastern part of the present village, east of John Lothrop's. Around Coggin's Pond† were settled Henry Bourne, Thomas Hinckley,‡ Henry Coggin, § Laurence Litchfield, James Hamblin and William t "A settlement was also made very early on the borders of Coggin's Pond. Here we find the same peculiarity in the shape of the original lots, their longer lines extended from east to west; while in all other parts of the town except in these two particular localities the longer lines are north and south. The early settlers in that neighborhood were Henry Bourne and Thomas Hinckley, from Scituate, and Henry Coggin, Lawrence Litchfeld, James Hamblin, and William Tilley, probably associates of htr. Collicut." (Oil's Barnstable Families, p. 335.

Otis: "Coggin's Pond was afterwards called Hinckley's Pond, now Great Pond — a very indefinite name. Cooper's or Nine Mile Pond is also called Great Pond." Its beautiful shores and the surrounding drives and groves, where the trailing arbutus is so plentiful, furnish opportunity for most delightful outings.

son of Samuel Hinckley. Consult Otis's Barnstable Families; Moore's Lives of the Governors of New Plymouth and Massachusetts; and Coll. Mass. Hist. Soc., 4th series, vol. v: p. xiii, historical preface to "Hinckley Papers."

§ Henry Coggin was of Boston in 1634, afterwards of Scituate, and removed with the first settlers to Barnstable in 1639. His name is written: Coggin,

Tilley. Between Coggin's Pond and the present court house were Isaac Robinson, James Cudworth, Samuel Jackson, Thomas Allyn, John Mayo, John Caseley, Robert Linnell, William Caseley, Thomas Lothrop and Thomas Lumbert. Several, including John Bursley, settled west of Coggin's Pond, the settlement, like the present village, being scattered along for a space of three miles. The centre of the village then was a little east of Coggin's Pond. Many of these first houses were made of timber and lumber brought from the saw mill at Scituate,* the distance by water being short and transportation by boats easy. The house in which Governor Hinckley lived and died was just east of Marcus M. Nye's store, on the north side of the country road, near the head of 'Calf Pasture lane,' The governor's former house't was on the opposite side of the country road, and here under a stone wall, is the well which he used. The so-called Scudder lane of later years was 'Calf Pasture lane' in the early days of the village, and led to common lands held at that time by the proprietors, and which are known to this day as the 'Calf Pasture lands.' It is in tradition that the first comers to this town and village first settled at this pasture land, and the next year moved back from the water. Among the early industries was the making of salt, ‡

On January 5, 1643-4, Thomas Lothrop, Thomas Hinckley, Henry Cobb, and Isaac Robinson, a son of the Rev. John of Leyden, drew up a list of those who were then inhabitants of Coggan, Cogan, Coggen, Cogain, also Goggin. His home-lot in Barnstable, containing 10½ acres, was bounded easterly by Coggin's now called Great Pond, southerly by the highway and John Finney's land, westerly by Henry Bourne's land, and northerly by the meadow. His house stood near the spot where Sturgis Gorham, Esq., built the house now owned by the Smiths. (Ods, in Barnstable Families p. 189.)

^{*}This saw mill was erected about 1636 by Isaac Stedman, and was on the site of the later Stockbridge's mills.— Deane's Scituate, pp. 16, 17.

It is to be recalled that Lawrence Litchfield's estate was near Hinckley's, so it is quite easy to tell its location. Oth's Genealogical Notes of Barnstable Families (1888), p. 5: "The records of the laying out of the lands of Barnstable in 1639, are lost. The entries made of the lands of Thomas Allyn furnish the best information we have on the subject." In 1654, he owned six of the original house-lots. These lots with others, constituted the central portion of the village originally laid out. "On the west, probably in the order named, were the lots of Gov. Hinckley, Sannel Hinckley, Gen. Cudworth, James Hamblen, Lawrence, Litchfield, Henry Goggin (or Coggin), (on the west of Goggin's pond) Henry Bourne, William Crocker, Austin Bearse, John Cooper, Thomas Hatch, Robert Sheley, William Betts, Henry Cowedl, Dollar Davis, John Crocker, Thomas Shaw, Abraham Blish, and Anthony Annable. The farm of the latter is now owned by Nathan Jenkins."—Bida, p. 7.

[‡] Perhaps it was this which attracted Lawrence Litchfield to Barnstable before his friends had come with Rev. Mr. Lothrop, from Scitnate.

Barnstable, and the 45 named were probably householders. In making this list, they commenced at the west end of the plantation, at Anthony Annable's, now Nathan Jenkins's, and proceeded eastward, recording the names of the inhabitants in the order in which they resided, to Mr. Thomas Dimmock, whose house stood a little distance east of where Isaac Davis's now stands

Many others were or had been residents of Barnstable, who were not "townsmen" at this date.

In the Company Roll of all male persons in Barnstable Company, between the ages of 16 and 60, able to perform military duty, in August, 1643,* were the following non-commissioned officers and privates:

The commissioned officer of this company was Lieut. Thomas Dimmock.†

In 1638, the famous Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston was founded by Capt. Robert Keayne, who had been a member of the Honourable Artillery Company of London.

Laurence Litchfield, 1640, joined A. & H. A. Co., of Barnstable, whence he removed after 1643, and in 1646 is found in Scituate. He died in Scituate in 1650. He was sent to Boston to study the art of war, that he might command an offshoot of the Barnstable train band about to swarm in a new location at Sippican on the north shore. He settled in Barnstable near what is called the Great Pond. and [†] Thomas Dimmock (various spellings) was from Dorchester, and with Rey, Joseph Hull was an original grantee, in 1639, of lands in Barnstable, although a previous grant had been made to Mr. Richard Collieut of Dorchester, but was withdrawn. Probably Hull and Dimmock were associates of Collieut. Dimmock and Hull were deputies for Barnstable in Dec. 1639 (Otis). Dimmock was representative from Barnstable in 1640–112–28-9 and 1659; commissioned Lieut., Oct., 16, 1633, and Ensign, June, 1638 (2), of Barnstable Company; on council of wet, Sept. 27, 1642, for the alarm of that year, and, Oct. 10, 1643, on committee to provide a place of safety for women and children, if the townspeople of Barnstable did not so provide (Pierce). Rev. Joseph Hull (or Hall, as his name occurs in Hotten's lists) settled first at Weymouth (Pope). He came in 1635.

adjoining to the estate of Gov. Hinckley. Mr. Litchfield is believed to be the progenitor of the families of New England of this name.*

"Lawrence Litchfield, 1614-1657, Member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, 1640, and of Lieut. Thomas Dymoke's Company at Barnstable, in active service with the Indians, 1643-4."†

From Roberts's History, pages 98-9, we learn the names of the members who were elected and were officers, in 1640-1. The officers were: Robert Sedgwick (1637), captain; Capt. Femys (1638), lieutenant; William Tyng (1638), ensign; Thomas Savage (1637), senior sergeant; Francis Cosen (1640), junior sergeant; John Johnson (1638), clerk.

The new members recruited for the A. & H. A. Company were:

Joseph Cooke, Cambridge; David Courtney; Francis Cosen; Wentworth Day, a surgeon at Cambridge; Henry Dunster, first president of Harvard College; Daniel Fisher, a representative and captain in Dedham; Joshua Fisher, town clerk of Dedham; John Friend, carpenter, worked on first Harvard College building, of Salem and Boston; John Gutteridge, tailor, Boston; William Hudson, prominent in military affairs of Boston; John Humfrey, Lynn, one of the six original purchasers of Mass. Bay, from Plymouth Council, Mch. 19, 1637; John Hurd, tailor, Boston; Thomas Lechford, Boston, first attorney to emigrate to New England; Lawrence Litchfield; Henry Looker (Loker), early settler of Sudbury; Francis Lyall, Boston, barber-surgeon; Thomas Marshall, Lynn, representative, captain, landlord of "Anchor Tavern;" James Oliver, Boston, in King Philip's war; Ralph Ory; Henry Phillips, Dedham, butcher, representative: Samuel Shepard, prominent in Cambridge; Christo-

It is interesting to note that in the roll of members of the "Honourable Artillery Company" of London, Eng., from 1611 to 1682, the following Litchfields are found: June 6, 1615, William "Lichfield;" March 20, 1626, William "Lichfield;" May 26, 1674, Phillip "Lichfield;" and in 1677, the Earl of Lichfield. pher Stanley, Boston, tailor; Robert Turner, Boston, innholder, "Blue Anchor" tavern; David Yale, Boston, father of Elihu Yale, founder of Yale College.

In such a goodly company our ancestor must have been a respected and active member.

The absence in this roll of members of any name connected with Scituate, or in fact with the history of Plymouth County is evidence that Lawrence' Litchfield joined it while residing in or near Boston, coming, probably, from Barnstable, or Scituate, "to study the art of war," as has been stated. Savage says he was not a resident of Barnstable after 1643. He probably continued his membership until his death, about ten years.

The first discovered fact which connects his name with Scituate is the record of the birth of his daughter, Dependance,² Feb. 15, 1646, on Scituate town records. From then on, he is supposed to have been an inhabitant of that town, but there is no record in Scituate of his becoming a citizen, of joining the church, or of serving his fellow-men in any civil capacity. There are and have been various private, chart, and "tree" accounts of Lawrence! Litchfield and his descendants, but many of the statements in the same are incorrect or misleading. Very little dependence should be put upon their historical truthfulness. One account speaks of Lawrence! Litchfield as being "a measurer of lands," another of him, as being sent by the Council on "discoveries far inland," and as "an able man."*

The registries of deeds and of probate at Barnstable contain nothing of Lawrence' or of his family. In 1827 the burning of the court-house at Barnstable destroyed all the early land records deposited there.

At Plymouth, in deeds or probate, Lawrence¹ does not occur as grantor, grantee, or testator, and on the criminal calendar his name is not found. In those times the most trifling faults were noted, and he who escaped a prosecution must necessarily have lived a blameless life. He also kept his name off the civil docket.

^{*}On authority of Mrs. Julia Griggs? (Litchfield) Hills, Hartford, Ct., but who cannot state her source of information (1899).

He had no lawsuits. This is negative evidence, but it is testimony in favor of his being a quiet, peaceable man, one who minded his own business, a desirable neighbor and a good citizen.

Morse, in his Litchfield Genealogy, says:

The silence of court records, properly considered, and the peace and good order of the community in which he lived, seem to endorse his civil character, while the eminent piety of the company in which he was found, and his voluntary continuation with them, more than the longest fraternized residence with any foreign mission, indicate that he was like-minded and truly a man of God.

Lawrence' Litchfield was entitled to hold land in "Conihasset" (Scituate), for those rights descended to his heirs and successors as will be noted.

No settlement of the estate of Lawrence' Litchfield has been found. He died at Scituate, according to several authorities, in 1650, but the compiler thinks it was in 1640. On his death-bed he left his youngest son, Josiah², to the care of John Allen and wife (see page 38). On March 20, 1657–8, according to the affidavit of Judith (Dennis-Litchfield) Peaks, formerly wife of Lawrence' Litchfield, Josiah² had been living with the Allens "by the Space of about nine yeares," and as he had not immediately gone to live with them after the death of his father, it is reasonable to infer that Lawrence' died in the year 1649, instead of 1650, as stated above. Lawrence' was living on November 14, 1648, when he was made a beneficiary of the will of Thomas Rickard.*

Lawrence' Litchfield was undoubtedly buried in what is known as the "First Parish Burying ground," at Scituate Harbor. This ^{*} Thomas Rickard was in Scituate as early as 1639, when he was a town officer. His name is spelled variously,—Record, Record, Ricard, Rickerd, etc. The modern form is, perhaps, Richard or Richards. Deane's Scituate does not mention him, but his name occurs quite often in the Plymouth Colony Records, as of Scituate. Perhaps he was a relative of William Richards, in Scituate in 1636 (Deane); and the Rickards of Plymouth and vicinity were undoubtedly his kinsmen. Morse suggests that he was a relative of Lawrence Litchfield. At the time of making his will he was evidently unmarried, or a widower and childless. The Rickards were probably natives of Kent County, England, as parish registers of the early part of the 17th century reveal many of the name as living there before 1620. A more extended account of Thomas Rickard may be found in the Appendix to this Genealogy. He died probably the last of November, 1648. Morse's Litchfield Genalogy confuses Thomas "Dennis" with Thomas Rickard.

adjoined the first church and its yard. Probably his sons Experience² and Josiah² were also buried there. But no stone remains to record their burial. It is hoped by the compiler to raise an amount in the near future sufficient to defray the expense of placing a stone in this "God's acre," in memory of Lawrence and Josiah² Litchfield. Every descendant is asked to contribute.

On page 81 of the same volume is the record of the inventory of the estate of Thomas Rickard, which was taken on Dec. 2, 1648, by Humphrey Turner and Joseph Tilden, and amounted to £25-12-3. This inventory was presented with the will and Joseph Tilden made oath to his signature, June 8, 1649.

Lawrence', Litchfield died before February 16, 1649–50, the date of the will of William Dennis, the father of Lawrence's wife, Judith. In this will of William Dennis (see page 18), ^{*} Deane says that "Henry Bourn was a freeman in Scituate 1632, but not an householder" and "removed to Barnstable in 1630." "He was brother to Richard Bourn the first preacher to the Marshpee Indians." "Cozin" did not mean "Cousin" necessarily; it probably means nephew here.

¡ This name also appears as Besbedge and Bisby; it is now written "Bisbee."

[†] This name also appears as Besbedge and Bisby; it is now written "Bisbee." Elisha kept the first ferry in Scituate, in 1644. (See Deane, p. 221.) ‡ He was a freeman in Scituate in 1640; his first wife was Mary Rawlins, and the testator bequeaths property to his son-in-law, William Peakes, who married widow Judith Litchfield. Scituate records give the date of the latter marriage as Oct. 2, 1650. Thus the discrepancy between the dates of William Dennis's will and William Peakes's marriage becomes apparent. The latter date should probably be Oct. 2, 1649, the mistake arising from a misunderstanding or postponement of record. Lawrence died, it seems quite conclusive, some time in the last six months of 1649.*

Wherever the name of Litchfield occurs in old records, there is much variation in its spelling. This is true, also, of the Christian name of Lawrence. These varied spellings will be noted throughout this work.

The wife of Lawrence¹ Litchfield was Judith Dennis.† She was the daughter of William Dennis.

Plymouth Colony Records, vol. xii, gives information concerning a William Dennis of Plymouth and a William Dennis of Scituate. The former was son of the latter, as a reading of the appended deeds will disclose. Deane does not gives any Dennis. N. E. Hist, Gen. Register, vol. v: page 335, Savage, and Pope, are wrong in their statements regarding the will of William Dennis of Scituate.

A William Dennis took the oath of fidelity in Plymouth; on March 4, 1638-9 he was granted six acres of land at "Kenelmes Dingle." in Plymouth, and on March 24, 1638-9, he bought some land, which he sold in 1640 (see appended deeds). William, Jr., returned to England that year. In 1677 a William Dennis was member of the "Honourable Artillery Company" of London. Perhaps this was Judith's brother. In 1615, a Christopher "Dennys" was a member. It seems very probable that the family of Dennis was from Kent County, England, as the name was quite common there before and about 1620.

William Dennis, Sr., was in Scituate in 1642, and perhaps earlier. It is not known what relation he bore to others of the same family

^{*} One must not forget that before March, 1752, the calendar year began on March 25, and closed on the following March 24. Hence we have double dates between January 1 and March 25, and so we call a year by new or old style dating, according as we consider its beginning on January 1, or March 25. For example, Feb. 16, 1649-50 means Feb. 16, 1649, old style, or Feb. 16, 1650, new style. Careful attention to this will oftentimes prevent wrong conclusions, name in Plymouth and Massachusetts Bay Colonies, of which there was a large number. Pope says he was a freeman, March 9, 1637, and was a shoemaker by trade, but it is hard to tell which William is intended in the early entries. In 1642–3, William, Sr., had charge of his son's unsettled affairs in New England. He died probably in April, 1656. His will is appended. The names of his wife and other children (if any) are unknown. He was undoubtedly a widower when he made his will. More concerning the Dennis family will appear in the Appendix.

Judith Dennis was probably born in England, perhaps in Kent, where Lawrence may have known her before they emigrated to America. They were married about 1640, but the place and exact date thereof are unknown. The date of her birth is conjectural. Her first child, Experience² Litchfield, was born probably in 1641 or 1642; her last child, William Peakes, Jr., was born July 15, 1662; she died in September or October, 1685. In her will, 1685, she does not speak of herself as "aged" or "infirm," which was a common thing to do in the case of testators who were in old age. She was probably a little younger than Lawrence Litchfield.

Widow Judith (Dennis) Litchfield married, Oct. 2, 1649,* William Peakes, as her second husband, and his first wife. William Peakes† was a freeman in Scituate in 1643; took the oath of fidelity in 1644; in 1655, 1677 and 1678, served on coroner's juries; constable in 1666 with Richard Dwelly and John Rogers, all of Scituate; he also served as surveyor of highways with Robert Stetson and William Ticknor. Deane says that William Peakes purchased lands of "goody Woodfield," widow of John Woodfield, and that his house was at "Hoopole Neck," "on the east of the stepping stones way," where, in 1831, ^{*} See discussion of this matter on pp. 14, 15, supra.

The name varies, like others of the olden time, — Pakes, Peaks, Peaks, being common forms. A more complete account of William Peakes and his descendants, who are all half-cousins of the descendants of Lawrence' Litchfield, will appear in the Appendix to this Genealogy.

his descendant, Eleazer Peakes, was living.* He owned, in 1680, 45 acres of upland and two shares of marsh besides onehalf share in undivided Conihasset land. In 1673, he was on the list of "allowed and approved inhabitants" of Scituate to whom portions of the common lands were assigned by the joint committee of the Court and town. Among the names of the non-commissioned officers and privates of the Scituate Company, in August, 1643, that of William "Pakes" is given.

The children of William and Judith (Dennis-Litchfield) Peakes were:

- Thankful Peakes,† drowned on or about Nov. 15, 1655.
- b. Israel Peakes, b. in Scituate, Feb. 22, 1655-6.
- c. Eleazer Peakes, b. in Scituate, May 3, 1657.
- d. William Peakes, b. in Scituate, July 15, 1662.

The births of these sons may be found in the first book of Scituate vital records. Israel and William, and perhaps Eleazer, married and left descendants in Scituate. It is curious to note that some of the present residents of Scituate, who have married descendants of Lawrence' Litchfield, are direct descendants of William and Judith Peakes. There are none by the name of Peakes living at the present time in Scituate.

William Peakes was guilty of a misdemeanor which is recorded in Plymouth Colony Records, vol. v: p. 142:-

March 4, 1673-4: William Peakes acknowlidgeth to owe vnto our sour lord the Kinge the sume of £20.00. The condition, that if the said Willam Peakes doe prsonally appear att the Court of his matie to be holden att Plymouth the first Tusday in June next, to make further answare for his beating, abusing and afrighting the wife

^{*} It is said that the cellar-hole of this house may still be seen, out in the field, east of the road that leads past the home of Miss Sarah R. Damon, North Scituate. This is the place, probably, where Experience 2 Litchfield (see page 31) died, in 1673. This region is known as Battle's hill, and is crossed by Hallet street. This was in the Conhasset ["Cohasset"] grant. (Deane, pp. 4-6).
† Plymouth Col. Rec., Nov. 15, 1655: A coroner's jury was impanelled, which idd looke on the body of Thankfull Pakes, to enquire of the vutnierly death of it. By the appointment of mee, Timothy Hatherly." This jury brought in the verdict that "wee find Willam Pakes his well to be very dangerous, as both in that it lyes at the foot of a hill, as alsoe haueing noe fence aboute itt to preserve a child from shooting or tumbling in; see the child falling or tumbling in the a child from shooting or tumbling in; soe the child falling or tumbling in the water was the cause of the death of Thankfull Pakes." This is the only reference found in any record to this first child of Judith, by her second marriage, of Josias Leichfield* and in the interem that hee behaue himselfe peacably towards our sour lord the Kinge, and all his leich [liege] people, and in speciall towards the wife of Josias Leichfield aforsaid, and not depart the said Court without lycence; that then, &c.

This court record, together with the opening words of his will, would indicate that William Peakes was not as peaceable a citizen and kind a husband and father, as Judith's first husband, Lawrence¹ Litchfield, had been.

William Peakes died in the last months of 1682, or the beginning of 1683 (new style). The settlement of his estate and that of Judith, his wife, follow:

tory and the substitution of that of his brother Israel,2 show quite conclusively that Eleazer did not return to Scituate to claim his legacy, and it is therefore possible that Dependance² Litchfield as well as William2 Peakes, became possessors of Eleazer's2 share, according to the terms of Judith's will. Nothing has been found by the compiler to show that Eleazer² Peakes ever returned to his home in Scituate from some unknown place, where he was in 1685, when his mother made her will.

EXPERIENCE² LITCHFIELD (Lawrence¹), son and first child of our ancestors, Lawrence and Judith (Dennis) Litchfield, was probably born at Barnstable, in 1641 or 1642, during his father's residence there, but no birth or baptismal record has been found. On May 27, 1672, Experience Litchfield was left a legacy by the will of Esther (Hester) Woodfield which reads as follows:

^{*} Esther Woodfield was the widow of John Woodfield of Scituate. John Woodfield was one of the Conihasset (Scituate) partners in 1646. His name occurs quite often in the old Conihasset Records, which are still preserved at the Town clerk's, Scituate, Mass., and which have been carefully consulted by the compiler. He was one of the "agitators" in a conference held between the first (north) and second (south) churches in Scituate, for the purpose of attempting a reconciliation in 1649 (see Deane). He took the oath of fidelity in Scituate before 1644; was propounded as a freeman, at Plymouth, June 5, 1651; again on May 4, 1653, and again on June 8, 1655. He died in 1669, leaving, b will, his whole estate to his wife, Hester. Rev. Nicholas Baker was one of the witnesses to this will. Inventory: £64; 4; 0. Esther (Hester) Woodfield died in 1672. A more extended account of the Woodfields will appear in the Appendix to this Genealogy. They had no surviving children. It would seem that there was some relationship existing between the Litchfields and Woodfields. Morse (Litchfield Gen.) has "Woodfiel" for Woodfield.

This will was exhibited at Plymouth, June 5, 1672, and both of the witnesses made oath to their signatures. The inventory of Hester Woodfield was presented the same day as the will. Its amount was, approximately, £80: o: o. The appraisers were "Rodulphus Elmes" and "Steuen Vinall." †

Experience² Litchfield died at Scituate, Aug. 1, 1673, from the result of an accident, as the following abstract from the Plymouth Colony Records proves:

Wee, whose names are heervnto subscribed, being by Henery Chettenden‡ the constable of Scittuate, impannelled on a corroners inquest the second day of August, 1673, to make enquiry how Experience Leichfeild came to his suddaine and vntimely death, haueing viewed the corpes and examined the witnesses, and seriously considered many concurring cercomstances, doe declare that wee doe clearly apprehend, that Experience Leichfeild, the first of August, 1673, being a loading a boate att Rodulphus Elmes his landing place att Hoopole Neckes in Scittuate, and haueing a waighty peece of timber on his shoulders to carry aboard the boate, goeing on vpon a muddy and slippery planke, his feet flying vpp, and hee falling with his head, and the logg falling on his eare and necke, soe that betwixt the logg and the planke hee receiued soe mortall a wound in his hed, which wee apprehend was the cause and meanes of his death, whoe died att

^{*} There were several Elizabeth Wades at this time, and it is difficult to tell which one this witness was, but she was probably the wife of Nicholas Wade, mentioned before.

[|] Ancestor of the Ellms family, and son of Widow Anna Vinal, respectively. 1 Son of Thomas Chittenden, one of the Conihasset partners. (Deane, p. 232.)

[§] The location of this landing place was probably not far from the junction of Hallet street and the road leading from North Scituate station to North Scituate beach, in the marsh which the beach-road crosses. Rodolphus Elmes was one of the Conihasset partners of 1646.

It is quite clear from the above that Experience² Litchfield was highly respected in the community, and a strongly-built and industrious man. He was of a business turn of mind, as the inventory of his estate further shows. His trade was probably that of a carpenter. He had never married, and died intestate. On Oct. 29, 1673, his brother Josiah2† was appointed administrator on his estate.

On March 4, 1673-4:

In reference vnto the estate of Experience Leichfeild, deceased, the Court haue ordered, that his brother, Josias Leichfeild, shall haue his land, and that the remainder of the estate, the debts being payed, shalbe equally deuided between him and his two sisters, in equall and alike proportions. [Plymouth Colony Records.]

For some reason or other, Josiah² was slow in his administration of the estate, as the following proves:

Oct. 27, 1674, "Josias Leichfeild is required by authority of the Court, without any further delay, to make pay vnto his two sisters, Remember Lewse [Luce] and Dependance Leichfeild, to each of them, the full of one third pte [part] of the estate of his brother, Experience Leichfeild, when the debts are payed." [Plymouth Colony Records.]

The final settlement of Experience's estate did not occur until four years later, in 1678, as the following discharges‡ testify:

It is very clear from this inventory that Experience² was engaged also in shipping lumber to Boston and perhaps at the very time that the fatal accident overtook him. The "land" mentioned was undoubtedly that referred to on page 28, which was owned with his brother-in-law, Henry Luce. Josiah2 became possessor of Experience's land, by the decree of the Court (see page 32). "His bookes" show that he was somewhat of a scholar, as only the educationally inclined or the wealthy possessed such luxuries.

REMEMBER² LITCHFIELD (Lawrence¹), daughter and second child of Lawrence¹ and Judith (Dennis) Litchfield, born before 1646, probably in 1644 (birthplace unknown, but perhaps Barnstable), was remembered in the will of her grandfather, William Dennis (see page 18). Remember* married about 1670, Henry Luce (sometimes Lucy), who may have been a son of Thomas Luce† of Charlestown.

Henry "Lewse" was impanelled on a jury in Scituate, Nov. 13, 1666, at the same time with William Peakes. In 1668, he and Experience² Litchfield had a mutual interest in Rehoboth land (see page 28). Farmer and Savage say that "Henry Luce was of Rehoboth in 1668." There is no reference to him, however, in the extant Rehoboth records. He was a resident to of Tisbury in 1673, and perhaps as early as 1671; in 1675, chosen surveyor; living Feb. 3, 1687; died before March 12, 1689.

^{*&}quot;Remembrance" is the name given her by Morse and Deane; this is incorrect and there has been found no authority for it in original records. Deane says that she married "Lewis" of Barnstable. This mistake arose from wrongly modernizing the name "Lewis". The compiler claims the distinction of proving the marriage of Remember² Litchfield to Henry Luce. He is sustained in his posi-tion by descendants, notably Miss Harriet M. Pease of Edgartown, Martha's Vinevard, Mass.

i Savage: "Had Samuel, b. 1644, says Farmer, to which I can add nothing, but that he probably removed soon." The compiler has found nothing further concerning him, or his family. Notice that Henry Luce had a son Thomas. I On authority of Miss Harriet M. Pease, who has made quite a study of the

Nathaniel Skiffe, and Simon Athearn were freeholders in Tisbury, Martha's Vineyard, in 1677. [Minn's Hist, Coll, of Martha's Vineyard.]

Zephaniah Luce was among the first bearing the name to settle in Industry. His ancestry runs back four generations to *Menry & *Remember (——) Luce, the common ancestors of this numerous race in New England. The account proceeds to enumerate the generations of ancestors of Zephaniah⁵ Luce to "Experience Luce, who was born Feb. 7, 1673, and died Jan. 9, 1747, the son of *Menry & Remember Luce. But little is known of Menry Luce, the maiden name of whose wife has not been learned." [Hist. of Industry, Me., p. 675.]

Miss Pease says that Remember, widow of Henry Luce, was living in November, 1708. Descendants settled in Maine, and early in Connecticut. A more complete account of this family will appear in the Appendix to this Genealogy.*

The children† of Henry and Remember² (Litchfield) Luce were:

Dependance² Litchfield (Lawrence¹), second daughter and third child of Lawrence' and Judith (Dennis) Litchfield, was born in Scituate, where the record (only one of Lawrence's children) is still legible on the town clerk's first book of vital records: "Dependance the daughter of Larance Lechfeld was Borne ve 15 of Febuary 1646."

In 1672, by the will§ of Hester (Ester) Woodfield, Dependance2 received ten shillings; in 1649 she was remembered, with her brother and sister, in the will of her grandfather, William Dennis; | in 1678, she signed a paper in receipt of all her interest in the estate of her brother, Experience2 Litchfield; ¶ in 1683, William Peakes bequeathed her thirty pounds and "houserome and fiering soe longe as shee Liueth a single woman;" in 1685, her mother, Judith Peakes, mentions her in her will†† as unmarried.

It is possible that it was Dependance, called by Deanett "Deborah," who married, in 1687, John Cowen, son of John Cowen and widow Rebecca Man, his wife. If this was Dependance2 instead of "Deborah," then she was about forty-one years of age at marriage, and could not have been the mother of all of John² Cowen's children.*

There was no "Deborah" among the descendants of Lawrence Litchfield, in Scituate, old enough to marry in 1687, and the compiler fails to find another Deborah to fit the case. Deane was not infallible.

It seems more probable that Dependance² died unmarried, although no record of the death of a Dependance† Litchfield (nor of a Deborah or Dependance Cowen) has been found, nor any record of administration on her estate. It is hoped that the compiler will be able to throw more light on this subject before the completion of this Genealogy. The supposition that Dependance² married a Barrett has no foundation.

Josiahi (or Josias)² Litchfield (Lawrence⁴), the second son and youngest child of Lawrence⁴ and Judith (Dennis) Litchfield, was undoubtedly born in Scituate, but no birth record has been found there. From Cour records we judge that his birthday was April 3 or 4, 1648. When Josiah² was about two years old, his father died, and a short time afterwards, he became a member of the family of John and Ann Allen,[‡] as their adopted child.

Sept. 7, 1701; Mary "Cowing," b. Apr. 1 (2), 1705. Deane gives the same children. The name of the mother does not appear. No marriage record of John² Cowen has been found; he was born in Scituate, July 10, 1662, and thus was sixteen years younger than Dependance² Litchfield. If Dependance² was his wife, then he must have had two wives as mothers of his children.

i Among Boston mariages (1700–175t, printed vol.) is found: "Dependance Litchfeeld & Eliza Fairfeeld, married by Rev. Mr. Benj. Wadsworth Presbytn. Dec. 5, 1718." The xx of this "Dependance" precludes the possibility of identity with Dependance of Scituate. Who was this Dependance of Boston?

I John Allen, 30 years, husbandman, and his wife, Ann, 30 years, came in the "Abigail," in 1635 (see Hotten's Lists). They were from Herne-hill, in Kent, Eng. It has been a tradition in the Litchfield family that John Allen was guardian to Lawrence! Litchfield and came with him from England, also that Judits wife of Lawrence, was a daughter of John Allen, but neither of these stories has foundation in fact. Probably there was some family connection between these families of Allen and Litchfield, but no marriages between them in this country have come to light. John Allen lived first in Plymouth, where land was granted him; this he sold in 1641, and removed to Scituate, where he was "freeman" in 1643, a "Conihasset" partner in 1646, constable in 1645, served as juror and on inquests. Deane says that he lived at Scituate Harbor, in a house purchased of John Allen, Ann (or Anne, or Anna), married, secondly, Capt. Michael Peirce, as his second wife, and survived him as his widow (Plym. Col. Rec.). John

Mr. Micael Peirse came before this Court [Mch. 7, 1664-5] and desired that an order pased by the Court in reference vnto the desposing of the estate of John Allin, deceased, with speciall reference vnto the portion of Josias Leichfeild, might bee considered by the Court, and amended in respect that some detriment is likely to acrew

Wheras there was an agreement made between the Court and Leftenant James Torrey and Cornett Robert Studson, as gaurdians vnto Josias Leichfeild and Anna somtimes the wife of John Allin, bearing date June, 1663, and stands vpon record prticularly to bee seen, wee doe heerby declare and testify, that the said agreement wee did and doe clearly understand was for a full and finall issue and settlement of what prained vnto the said Leichfeild from Goodmans Allins estate.

Josiah² Litchfield was administrator of his brother Experience's estate, the account of which has already been given. Josiah² is named in the list of 132 "alowed and approuved inhabitants," of Scituate, to whom portions of the common lands were assigned, by the joint committee of the Court and the town, Feb. 26, 1674.*

In the first book on Highways and Assignments of Land, at Town Clerk's office, Scituate, are found the following references to Josiah's grants and receipts of land in Scituate:

Feb. 26, 1673, in common with 131 others who received various sized grants, -3 "ackers."

March 9, 1702-3: At a town meeting, this day, according to an act of 1683, granted "To ye heirs or sucsessors of Larance Lichfield 27 [acres of] land," and "To ye heirs or sucsessors of Larance Lichfield 7 [acres of] land."

In the first book of Town Meeting Records of Scituate, the following grants of land are recorded:

Feb. 11, 1706–7: There was a distribution of cedar swamp "to Each of ye s^d propriators inhabitants and such sucsessors as afores^d whoe are hereafter named and Expressed an Eaqual part or share thereof (that is to say)

To Josiah Lichfield . . . 1. [Josiah.²]

To Nickolas Lichfield . . . [Son of Josiah².]

To Josiah Lichfield jun^r. [Son of Josiah².]

Feb. 11, 1706–7: At a Town meeting, this day, it was voted to lay out 200 ten acre lots of land of the "Stated Common," at \pounds_3 per lot. The proceeds of the sale to go, one half to "ye Church and Society at ye northerly End of ye s^d Town," and the other half to "ye Church and Society up ye north River." Josiah² Litchfield, Josiah³ Litchfield, Jr., and Nicholas³ Litchfield each expressed his desire to purchase 10 acres.

March 19, 1706–7: At a town meeting it was reported that a sufficient number of names had been secured for the above-mentioned lots, and payment or sufficient security had been given for the same. It was therefore voted to sell these lots, and James Cushing was appointed "to prepare ye number of ye lotts and to bring them" to a meeting to be held the first Tuesday of April, 1707, at ten A. M. At this drawing of lots, in April, Josiah² Litchfield drew lot No. 133: Nicholas,³ lot No. 154, and Josiah,³ Jr., lot No. 40.

March 23, 1723-4: Among those named as eligible to a division of land,—one share each in the Common,—were:

Successor of Josiah Litchfield Sen. decd.

Successor of John Allin, Decesd.

Nicho. Litchfield and Samuel Litchfield [sons of Josiah2].

In vol. v of the Scituate Town Records, there are entered the descriptions of ear-marks which were ordered to be placed on animals allowed to run at large on the Common; the following relate to horses owned by Josiah, Josiah and Nicholas Litchfield:

May 23, 1692: The ear mark of Josiah Lechfeild is a triangle pease cut out of Right Eare.... on the top of Eare.

1694: Josiah Lechfeild, one horse of a Dark bay culler a black tayle and mane a swallow tayle cut out of the Right eare.

1700: Josiah Leechfield one gray horse a hollow crop out of the right eare.

Josiah Leechfield one brownish mare with a white slip down her fore head, her hinder Right foot white, her mane black & cut & the hair of her tayl som of it cut & her tayle, black.

Besides the above, on following pages of the records, are found the names of those who owned animals which were allowed to run on the Common, but no car-marks are given for the following horses owned by Samuel³ and Nicholas³ Litchfield:

1719: Samuel Litchfield owned one iron gray mare.

Samuel Litchfield owned one iron gray mare with a black tail and mane.

1722: Nicholas Litchfield one black mare colt with a star in her forehead.

Samuel Litchfield one gray horse with a star in his fore head & two white feet.

1723: Nicholas Litchfield owned blackish mare with some white in her face.

Samuel Litchfield, same as in 1722.

1725: Samuel Litchfield owned chestnut mare with a white star in her forehead and two white feet.

1726: Samuel Litchfield owned one red mare with two white feet, probably the same animal as in 1725.

These abstracts from early Scituate records serve to show that the characteristic love of horseflesh by the later generations of Litchfields was inherited from the American progenitors of the family.

On Nov. 27, 1682, Josiah "Lechfeild" and twenty others agreed to a proposition which was made at a town-meeting, held that day, for the settling of the "Long Contreversy betwen the towne and the propriators of Cohasset," regarding the boundaries. In this agreement he is named with the others as "naightbors of Conihassett."

At the town meeting, March 12, 1693–4, Jonathan Turner and Josiah "Lechfeild" were chosen constables; on March 25, 1696, Josiah "Lechfeild," Richard Dwelly and Thomas Nichols were chosen fenceviewers. At the town meeting, Feb. 23, 1696–7, Joseph Randall, Josiah "Leechfield," Thomas Oldham, Jr., and Joseph House were chosen to serve on the grand jury for the ensuing year; on Sept. 3, 1700, Josiah "Leechfield," Thomas Pinson, Israell Cowing and Sergt. John Bryant were chosen to "serve on the petie Jury."

Josiah² Litchfield was an active partner in the company which owned and had charge of the lands of Conihasset. His title to this partnership had come from his father, Lawrence, and also from John Allen. In 1695, he was elected a surveyor of land, and many divisions were made by or through him, in that and following years. The following abstracts show how much of a land-holder and developer he was.

^{*} The following explanation occurs in the Records, under date of June 23, 170: "By neare Relations is ment, father, son, brothers, uncles, naphews, or first cuzens."

March 29, 1695 — Laid out to Josiah "Leichfield," a little more than 10 A. of land, one bound of which was his own orchard which lay to the north. April 25, 1695 — Land on "Farm Neck," laid out to him. July 22, 1695 — Laid out $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres, near land of Curtis and Cowing. July 28, 1695 — 10 acres. Sept. 9, 1695 — $2\frac{1}{2}$ acres. Feb. 23, 1696 — One acre, 36 rods, near Israel Cowing's. March 15, 1699 — $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres in five different places. May 22, 1699 — $4\frac{1}{2}$ A. $26\frac{1}{2}$ R., also $\frac{1}{2}$ R.

In 1695, land laid out to Experience "Damon" in right of John "Daman," deceased, was bounded partly by land of Josiah Litchfield. June 13, 1699 — Land laid out to Gershom Ewell was bounded by that of Josiah "Leichfield." Sept. 27, 1701 — Taken up and laid out for Josiah Litchfield, S4½ rods of land, in right of John Hoar; Joseph Stockbridge and Zachaty Damon were abutters. May 2, 1695 — Josiah "Liechfield" is a witness to a transfer of land from Thomas Man to Israel Cowing. Feb. 16, 1703-4 — Josiah "Leichfield" and Jonathan Dodson exchanged land; J. L. sold to J. D., 1 A. 36 R., abutting on Israel Cowing; J. D. sold to J. L., a piece of meadow land near "Stepping-stones," and abutting on Samuel Holbrook's marsh. Jan. 20, 1696 — In an exchange of land between Nathaniel Tilden and John Merritt, Josiah Litchfield was an abutter on Tilden. March 28, 1694 — 35 acres of land laid out to Samuel Holbrook; "Stepping-stones," and the land of John Booth and of Josiah Litchfield mentioned as abutting. This land had formerly belonged to Josiah Litchfield and was laid out by him. April 5 & 11, 1695 — Land laid out to Israel Cowing was near that owned by Josiah Litchfield. On June 6, 1699, land laid out to Cowing had Josiah Litchfield as an abutter. June 8 & July 14, 1699 — Land laid out to William Peakes, Jr., was near Josiah Litchfield's; the latter division in the "beaches." June 24, 1702 — Thomas Curtis sold to Josiah Litchfield, for £1 145, 6d., 1 A, 53\frac{1}{3} R, of land which had been laid out to Curtis, in 1699, and which bordered on Josiah's land. July 14, 1699 — Laid out to Israel Peakes, 1\frac{2}{4} A, of land near Josiah Litchfield's.

Some of these transfers of land and use of Josiah Litchfield's name may refer to Josiah's son, Josiah,³ as the latter became a land-owner quite young and is named in the Conihasset Records.

In Plymouth Colony Deeds, vol. iv, in a deed from Thomas Hiland, Sr., to John Holbrook, Dec. 20, 1676, the "meddow of Josiah Leichfeild and John Booth" lay on the north-east boundary of the tract conveyed, which was "incompased" with land of Josiah² Litchfield, William Peakes and others.

It seems to be very clearly shown by boundaries and family tradition that Josiah² Litchfield's house was at or near the site of the home of the late Edwin Young, in Egypt.*

Josiah² Litchfield married Sarah Baker. The Scituate town record of this marriage is: "Josiah Lechfeld was married to Sarah Backer th 22 of Febuary 1671." Sarah Baker was the daughter of Rev. Nicholas Baker† of Scituate.

^{*} Egypt is that part of Scituate which lies between North Scituate, Scituate Centre and Scituate Harbor. It is said that the name was humorously applied to that section, as the "land of corn and plenty," when other parts were not so blessed with abundance.

[†] Rev. Nicholas Baker was born in England, 1611; graduated at St. John's College, Cambridge, received his A. B. in 1631–2; A. M., in 1635; in 1635, with brother Nathaniel, came to America. He spent a short time in Roxbury, but later in the year settled with his brother at Hingham, where he received a share in the first division of house-lots in Sept., and was freeman in 1636.

These brothers lived near what is known as Baker's Hill, in Hingham, on These brothers lived near what is known as Baker's Hill, in Hinghan, on Town (North, near Beal) street, and had five acres apiece. Later, Nicholas became a large knd-owner in Hull. He was representative to the General Court, from Hinghan, in 165 and 1638, being the first deputy from that town. About 1644-5, he removed to Hull, where he lived until he received a call to the First Church in Scituate, where he became pastor in 1666. His predecessors were:

Deane's Scituate, p. 183: "Sarah Baker married Josiah Litchfield of Scituate, in 1671, and her posterity is almost countless." It is to be borne in mind that all descendants of Lawrence Litchfield, bearing the name of Litchfield, are Sarah's posterity. Her birth or baptism have not come to light, but probably occurred at Hull. She died at Scituate, between 1715 and 1721.

On March 10, 1713–14, by deed (Plymouth Colony Deeds, vol. xi, p. 94), Sarah Litchfield, widow, relict of Josiah² Litchfield, sold to Stephen Vinal, her brother-in-law, for £3, 10s., one quarter interest in seven acres of "planting" land, which land had been granted to her father by the town of Scituate, and by him given to his four daughters. The witnesses were Josiah³ and Nicholas³ Litchfield. She signed by her mark, "S."

On Aug. 20, 1715, by deed (Plymouth Colony Deeds, vol. xv, p. 172), Sarah "Lechfield" of Scituate, "daughter of ye Revd Mr Nicholas Baker of Scituate," sold to her "well-beloved Son, Samuel Lechfield, cordwainer, in consideration of the Motherly Love & indeared affections," all her interest (one quarter) in fifty acres of land, granted her father by the town of Scituate, April 5, 1672, and which he had devised to his four daughters. Witnesses: Stephen Vinall and Nicholas³ "Lechfield"; the latter did not acknowledge his signature until June 21, 1721, after grantor's death.

Josiah² Litchfield died before Jan. 29, 1707–8. The settlement and division of his estate are given below.

Giles Saxton (before 1634); John Lothrop, 1634–1639; Charles Chauncy, 1641–1654; Henry Dunster (late President, Harvard College), 1654–1659.

At Scituate, his pastorate is most notable for the reconciliation which he effected between the First (north) and Second (south) parishes, in 1675. He was pastor until his death, Ang. 22, 1678. Cotton Mather says of him: "Honest Nicholas Baker of Scituate was so good a logician that he could offer up to God a reasonable service, so good an arithmetician that he could wisely number his days, and so good an orator that he persuaded himself to be a Christian."

The was married twice. His first wife died in 1661, and he married in 1662, Grace —, who survived him. In his will (1678), he bequeaths parcels of land and half of dwelling-house at Hull, to his wife, Grace; to son Samuel (m. Fear Robinson), land and other half of dwelling-house; to son Nicholas (m. Experience Collier), land at Scituate; to dan. Elizabeth (m. John Vinal, Scituate), dau. Sarah (m. Josiah'z Litchfold), dan. Deborah (m. Israel Chittenden, Scituate), and dan. Mary (m. Stephen Vinal, Scituate), each ten pomois. He had also sons, John and Thomas, and perhaps Nathaniel. Authorities: Hist, Hingham, Deane's Scituate, Oils's Barnstable Families, Baker Gen.

Four of the children of Josiah² Litchfield were baptized by Rev. William Wetherell, pastor of the Second Church in Scituate, and it would seem from this that he and his family attended this church. The baptisms are as follows:*

HANNAII³ LITCHFIELD (Josiah, ² *Lawrenec*⁴) was born in Scituate, Dec. 24, 1672: "Hanah Lechfeld, ye Daughter of Josiah Lechfeld was Borne ye 24 Decembr 1672." (Scit. Rec.) Baptized Sept. 5, 1680. Married (date unknown) Israel² Cowing (Cowen), born in Scituate, Dec. 10, 1664, son of John† and widow Rebecca (Man) Cowing.

Israel² Cowing resided near his brother-in-law, Nicholas³ Litchfield, in Scituate. "Mr. Israell Cowing departed this life, Jan. ye 15th 1717." (Scit. Rec.)

From Plymouth Probate Records it is learned that administration on his estate was granted to his widow, Hannah, Apr. 22, 1718. The inventory, taken Apr. 15, 1718, listed the following property: Mansion house, barn, about 87 acres land, £870; about 15½ acres meadow, £180; four acres cedar swamp, £40. Items of administration: Debt due Nicholas² Litchfield, 12 sh.; Israel³ Cowen called oldest son; homestead of Israel² Cowen bordered partly on Nicholas³ Litchfield and partly on John Vinall; owned marsh land at Hooppole Neck; Holbrook's ditch mentioned; owned two acres in Beechwoods, Cohasset, near John Clapp's. On May 13, 1720, widow Hannah Cowen was appointed guardian of her minor children, viz., Israel,³ Josiah, Gathelus, Job, Joseph and Rachel. Nicholas³ Litchfield was a witness to the guardianship bonds. On Feb. 16, 1721, the estate of Israel² Cowing was finally settled and all the remaining property fell to Israel,³ his son, except the widow's dower rights.

In the Conihasset Partners' records, Israel² Cowen is named as grantor and grantee, and as "surveyor," as early as 1695. See pages 49, 50, 51 and 56. See also deeds of Nicholas³ Litchfield. He was an active member of the First Parish.

In the first book of Town Meeting Records of Scituate there are three references to Josiah,3 viz.:

May 28, 1707: John Bryant, Jr., Elnathan Palmer, Edward Jenkins and "Josiah Lichfield Junior" were chosen "to serve on the Jury of Trialls at the next Superior Court to be holden at Plymouth."

Mch. 23, 1712-13: "Chosen for Surveyors of the highways, Josiah Leechfield David Little Samuel Turner, peter Collamer, Israel Siluester, Serj. Samuel Stetson, John Hatch."

Feb. 15, 1714-15: Israel Hatch, Bachelor Wing and Josiah "Leechfield "were chosen "to serve on the Jury of tryalls at the next County Court at Plymouth."

ABSTRACTS FROM PLYMOUTH COUNTY DEEDS.*

On Mch. 15, 1703-4, Rodulphus Elmes, Jr. of Scituate, for £,160, conveyed by deed,† to Josias Leichfield, Jr., 401 acres of upland,-"all that Parcel of land lying on the Northwest End of hoopoole Neck in Conihassett in Scittuate Aforsd all which sd lands was given unto me by My Honrd Father Rodulphus Elmes Senr." On Oct. 22, 1708, Josiah3 "Jr.," for 24s, conveyed by deed to Nathaniel Stetson of Scituate, two acres of land near land of Joseph Bates, which was laid out by Samuel Clapp and Israel Chittenden, surveyors. The witnesses were Dorothy and Deborah Otis.

On May 15, 1712, John Curtis, for £20, conveyed by deed$ to Josiah Lichfield, 31 acres of salt marsh in Conihassett ("Cohassett"); abutters were: Josiah Lichfield, Rodulphus Elms; a creek and ditch separated this land from that of Joseph White. Witnesses: Samuel Stodder and Nathaniel Pitcher.

The Clerk's Records† (1707-1761) of the First Parish, Scituate, contain a few references to Josiah3 Litchfield, viz.:

April 16, 1712, the "Northerly" (First) society agreed to let out to Iosiah3 "Leichfeild," a lot of salt marsh "near to Bailies belonging to the parsonage for thirty & one shillings a year & he to pay his rent Annually."

"At a meeting of the northerly sociaty in Scituate the 14 day of iune 1700

"Agreed by the Sosciaty that what remains as to finish the meeting house it be done by pewing of it & the pews to be made and built at the Cost and charge of those that enjoy them the day abousd ten days Liberty given for persons to enter their Claime for pews with the Clerk of the s^d sosciaty for pews...persons that entered are as followeth ;" Josiah³ "Lichfield," Nicholas³ "Leichfield," William Peakes, Israel Cowen, and others.

Mch. 10, 1714, . . . "The day abousd An account was given in of the names of those that have desired Liberty for building pews in the meeting house up the galleries & their names are as followeth." Twenty-five names are given, - among them, Josiah3 "Lichfield," Samuels "Lichfield," William Peaks, and Israel Cowen. It seems that not all these petitioners could be accommodated, for a little later a committee was appointed to adjust the matter, and it was decided to erect nine pews only; of these five were to be on the southerly side of the church in the front gallery, two above the east and west stairs, and the remaining two in the north-east and north-west corners of the galleries.

April 4, 1715, it was reported by this committee that these pews should be erected as follows: "At the eastwardly end of the front galery Josiah Lichfeild, the next westward on the same side Samuel Stoder, the next on the same side Israel Cowen, the next westerly Israel Chittenden, the next Joseph Clap & Nathaniel Tilden junrover the westwardly stayers David Litle, over the eastwardly stayers Stephen Vinall & John Woodworth — at the northwest corner of the end gallery Thomas Young & Joseph Nicholls, at the northwest corner of the east end gallery John Vinall & Jacob Vinall "

† These are still preserved in fair condition at the Town Clerk's, Scituate.

It is very probable that the following references to a Josiah Litchfield, in Conihasset Records, pertain to Josiah³:

May 20, 1690 Capt. Israel Chittenden deeds to Josiah Litchfield, Jr., 4 A. 261 R. of land in Scituate, for £6: 10s.

June 8, 1699 13 acres of land laid out to William Peakes, in right of John Woodfield, near Josiah Litchfield. Jr's.

May 22, 1710.... Taken up and laid out to Josiah "Lichfild," 166½ R. of land in Conihasset, in the right of John Hallet, in the beaches," bounded by land of William Peakes and that of Josiah L., bought of the Chittendens.

For Josiah's share in his father's estate, see pages 55–58. He was a wealthy man for those early times. His will indicates that he was engaged in sawing lumber and the manufacture of iron, in Hingham (now Cohasset), at the time of his decease. His trade was that of a "cordwainer" (shoemaker). Josiah's owned horses (see page 48).

He died at Scituate, Dec. 7, 1717, and lies buried in the First Parish Burying-ground, where his gravestone, still standing, reads as follows: "Here lyes ye body of Josiah Lechfeild aged 40 years. Dec^d Dec^r ye 7th 1717."

The will of Josiah,³ which follows, was written Dec. 6th, the day before he died, but was not probated until Apr. 16, 1718.

^{*}The sawmill" of the will is probably the mill then as now known as the "Turtle Island" sawmill. For an account of the "Iron works," mentioned in the will, consult Bigelow's Hist. of Cohasset, p. 188; this was the early iron industry in which Mordecai Lincoln (son of Samuel*—Hist. of Hingham, vol. ii. p. 459), the ancestor of President Abraham Lincoln, was deeply interested. The compiler is a descendant of Samuel* Lincoln. The following were associates of Josiab* in this early undertaking of the manufacture of iron: Thomas Andrews, Daniel Lincoln, Thomas James, Aaron Pratt, Mordecai Lincoln and Gershom Ewell, the last living in Scituate.

NICHOLAS³ LITCHFIELD (Josiah, ² *Lawrence*⁴) was born in Scituate: "Nickolas Lechfeild the Son of Josiah Lechfeild was borne th 7 of Febuary 1680 [1680–1]." (Scit. Rec.). Bapt. Oct. 16, 1681. (See page 59).

He was a most prominent citizen of Scituate and one of the wealthiest men in the town and county. Active in all the business, civil and religious life of the community, he was honored with many positions of trust and importance, as the church, town and county records show. He was a "cordwainer" (shoemaker) by trade. He was constantly buying and selling real estate, and it would seem that such operations largely increased his wealth.* As early as 1706–7, he was granted land by the town (see page 47). He was a Conihasset Partner, both in his own right and that of his father, Josiah.² (See pp. 50, 51.)

ABSTRACTS FROM CONIHASSET PARTNERS' RECORDS.

Feb. 29, 1699–1700. Jonathan Jackson sells to Nicholas Litchfield, for £6:13x., $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres of Conihassett land; John Pierce and Israel Cowing were abutters, and "Hatchet Rock" is mentioned as a bound. [Hatchet Rock was a mile south of Hoop-pole neck.]

Sept. 6, 1701. Three quarters of an acre of land, granted this day to William James, in the right of John Woodfield, with William Peakes as an abutter, was on April 7, 1702, conveyed to Nicholas "Liecthfield." (See page 29.)

Oct. 25, 1704. Laid out to Nicholas "Leichfield," in right of Thomas Tart and John Hoare, 73 rds. of land, part of which was near the house of Nicholas.³

Sept. 28, 1706. Nicholas "Licthfield" was an abutter on land laid out to John Vinal.

^{*}Some who have learned the number of transfers of real estate by Nicholas' have wondered how he could have possessed the means to buy so much land. It has been thought that his wife's people, the Clarkes (see page 91), of Plymouth, may have supplied the money, but there are no records showing mortgages or transfers of property to or from the Clarkes. His wife, Bathshela, received in 1731, only £10 by the will (see page 91) of her father. In the distribution of his father's estate (see page 58) Nicholas' received over 90 acres of land, valued at £178; 3s. This amount, together with the town and Conihassest grants, made him well-to-do in real estate, which he increased by judicious selling and buying. His shoemaking was probably a profitable occupation.

May 13, 1708. John Vinal and Nicholas "Lechfeild" (autograph signature) exchange land. This John Vinal was grandson of Widow Anna Vinal.

July 19, 1709. "Taken up by and laid out for Nicholas Liechfield two acres and six rods of land: one acre and three quarters in the Right of John Hoare, in the fift Division of Cohasset land of seven acres to a shear and in the :11: a lotment or choice in s⁴ Division and fourty and six rods in the Right of Edward Jenkins in the sixth Diuision of three acres to a sheare and in the :24: alotment or choice in s⁴ Diuision of Cohasset land which land lyeth in two peices or parsells: in Briggses harbor on the flates in Strabery coue..." This land had been laid out by Jonathan Dodson. [Strawberry cove was within the Glades (Deane).]

Feb. 1709-10. Laid out to Nicholas Litchfield, 2 A. 126½ rds. of land, in the rights of John Hoare, Edward Jenkins and Thomas Tart.

Mch. 10, 1709–10. Land was laid out to William James in the right of John Woodfield, which lay on "Farm Neck," near the land of Nicholas "Lichfield." On Nov. 21, 1710, this land was conveyed to John Houlbrook. [Farm neck was near Hoop-pole neck.]

Apr. 5, 1710. An exchange of land was effected this day, between Nicholas Litchfield and Israel Cowing. [Autograph signatures.]

Apr. 6, 1710. Laid out to Thomas Jenkins and Nicholas "Leichfeild," 1\(^3\) A. 2 rds. of Conihassett land; and on the 17th following, 2 A. to same parties, in right of Edward Jenkins.

May 24, 1710. One acre of land laid out this day, had as abutters, Josiah³ & Nicholas³ Litchfield, and it was near "Stony Brook." [Stony brook was an east branch of Merritt's brook which empties into Bound brook.]

In 1730, Nicholas³ Litchfield is named as one of the Conihassett agents, and was also elected as one of the men to view the undivided lands and straighten bounds, and in 1731, he laid out lands.

The name of the hill was written on the deed but it has gone from the record,—Tatnock (or Tatnuck) Hill. Mr. Allyn was probably John Allyn of "Middlebery" (Middletown, Ct.?), to whom Maj. Scituate, and is entitled "The Pilgrim Burying Ground, Meeting House Lane, Scituate."

This sharp ascent leads from the village way
To where the ancient burial ground doth lie,
Where human footsteps rarely ever stray,
And where most birds in the sweet springtime fly;
Long time disused, dismantled and despoiled,
O'er grown with weeds and briars' tangled thorn.
Tis many a year since funeral train bath toiled
Up here—tis burden to its "last earth" borne.
Some unknown spirit draws me to the spot,
Eidding me quit the more frequented way,
The modern ground with ornamented plot,
And marbles cut in fashion of the day—
Sweeter methinks among these briars and reeds,
Where loving Nature seems to weep in weeds.

Josiah, Nicholas, James, Eleazer, Isaac Bathsheba and Susanna Lichfield. Children of Nicholas Lichfield were Baptized 4-7-1720.

Following the order of the above baptisms, as well as the order of the sons given in that part of the will of Nicholas, in which he bequeaths to all his surviving sons, together with the consideration of the known dates of marriage and death of the children, the compiler has placed them in the order which is given below, but which order varies considerably from that given in Morse's Litchfield Genealogy, and Deane's Scituate.

JUDITH3 LITCHFIELD (Josiah, Lawrence1) was born in Scituate: "Judith Lechfeild the Daughter of Josiah Lechfeild was borne th 25 of Aprill 1687" (Scit. Rec.). Married at Scituate, Feb. 20, 1717-18, as is recorded in First Parish Records: "Joseph Briggs Jun" and Judith Lichfield were marryed 20-12-1717." He was the son of Lieut. James Briggs and Rebecca Tilden, and was born in Scituate, Apr. 29, 1679. Joseph, Jr., was thus brother of Mary (Briggs) Litchfield (page 66). Joseph died in Scituate in 1747. His will, dated May 22, 1747, probated Oct. 12, 1747, on file at Plymouth, names as legatees: Sarah, his wife (executrix); Mary Cudworth and Judith Briggs, his daughters; and Joseph Clapp, his grandson; to Judith, his dau., one-half his real estate and one-third of his personal property. On Nov. 13, 1747, the inventory of his estate, taken by Thomas Clapp, Benjamin Briggs and Nicholas3 Litchfield, amounted to £,14,471: 16s: 6d. This shows him to have been a very wealthy man for those days. On Aug. 5, 1751, part of the real estate was divided into three parts, for the benefit of Judith, wife of William Collier; Mary, wife of John Cudworth, and Joseph Clapp, Jr., only son of Hannah (Briggs) Clapp,

His bird wife* was the widow Sarah Morey (see Family No. 28), to whom Joseph was married, in Scituate, Jan. 14, 1730, and who survived him. He was called "Jr.," in order to distinguish him from his first cousin, Joseph Briggs (b. Feb. 19, 1678–9), son of Cornelius Briggs (ensign in King Philip's war). Judith³ is called "Judah," in the distribution of her father's estate (see page 56). On Mch. 22, 1711–12, by deed, Judith,³ and Ichabod Damon (Family No. 7) and wife, for £174: 10s., conveyed to Josiah³ Litchfield (Family No. 8), all their interest in the estate of Josiah³ Litchfield (see page 56). Scituate Town Records have several references to Samuel³. In 1719, the ear-mark for his cattle, etc., was "a Swallow Tale Cut out of ye Right ear." He owned several horses which are described on pages 48 and 49. At town meeting, Mch. 13, 1721, John Dwelly and Samuel³ Litchfield were elected "for to prosecute ye Law relating to horses." On Mch. 23, 1723–4, he received one share in the "Common Land" (see page 47). At town meeting, Feb. 26, 1733–4, he was elected one of the surveyors of highways, and again on Mch. 29, 1738. On June 20, 1737, he became a constable, as did Ambrose Cole, Jr., and Ephraim Otis. Again on Mch. 26, 1739, he was elected surveyor. In 1754, Samuel 3 was allowed 2s, "being y^e foot of his acco" against the town. He was a shoemaker.

In 1726, Samuel³ Litchfield was a witness to the will of Gershom Ewell, which was probated* Mch. 6, 1726–7; he was also an appraiser of Ewell's estate.

In the Clerk's Records† of the First Parish, Scituate, are the following references to Samuel³ Litchfield:

Mch. 30, 1742: M^r Sam ll Litchfield on a committee to consider and report regarding a new parsonage.

Jan. 3, 1742-3: This committee reported and it was voted to raise money for a new parsonage. (See Deane, p. 34.)

Mch. 12, 1754: Mr Samuel Letchfield, Col. Thos. Clap, Mr. Joseph Tilden, Mr. Timothy White and Capt. David Clapp were on a committee on parsonage matters.

Sept. 1, 1760: Mr. Samuel Lichfield, Thomas Clapp, Esq., Mr. Ensign Otis, Capt. David Clapp, Dea. Jonathan Merritt, Mr. Joseph Bailey and David Little, Esq., served on a committee to hear proposals from Rev. Shearjashub Bourn for supplying the pulpit during the poor condition of his health.

The abutters were: Thomas Soper, Thomas Colman, John Sutton, John Merritt and Thomas Jenkins. The interest was paid annually until May 3, 1727, when the mortgage was discharged.

Feb. 19, 1721-2: Samuel Lechfield, "cordwainer," for £25, to Peter Collamore of Scituate, one fourth of the fifty acre lot in Scituate abutting on "Shear Line," which Samuel had received from his mother (see page 52). June 8, 1741: David Little, Jr., "labourer," Scituate, for £60, one half a lot of land bought by grantor of his father, to Samuel Litchfield.

Jan. 25, 1749-50: Thomas Jenkins of Scituate, for £12: 10s., one fourth acre of land situated near grantee's, to Samuel Litchfield.

Samuel³ Litchfield was married twice. First, in Scituate, Mch. 25, 1712–13, by Rev. Nathaniel Pitcher, to Abigail Buck (or Bucke), born in Scituate, Aug. 7, 1685, bapt. "27–3–1711" (First Parish Rec.), daughter of Isaac* and Eunice (Turner) Buck.

He married, second, in Scituate, Mch. 6, 1734, a widow, Fear Turner, of whose parentage or former marriage nothing has been found, neither by the compiler nor any known Turner family authority. Their "intentions" were filed with the town clerk, Feb. 15, 1734–5. No children.

The dates of death of neither Samuel³ nor of his two wives have been found. From a study of deeds (which see) of his son Samuel,⁴ it is thought that Samuel³ was living as late as 1767. He probably died in Scituate in that or the following year.

Isaac Buck, Jr., married in Scituate, Oct. 24, 1684, Eunice Turner (see below). They had three children, viz.; Abigail (above), b. Aug. 7, 1685; Margrett, b. Aug. 7, 1687; Isaac, b. Apr. 8, 1689 (Scit. Rec.). Isaac, Jr., died Mch. 19, 1688–9 (Scit.

Rec.). Ancestor of compiler.

^{*} Isaac Buck (Bucke), called "Jr." was the son of Lieut, Isaac Buck and his sife, Frances —. Lieut, Isaac came to Scituate before 1647, and perhaps was a son of James Buck of Hingham. He was a blacksmith by trade. He served his adopted town as town clerk for several years, and also in King Philips war, where he fought bravely. He was a brother of Cornet John Buck, and died in 1695. His children were: Thomas, James, Joseph, Jonathau, Benjamin, Elizabeth (m. Robert Whitcomb), Mehitabel (m. Stephen Chittenden), Ruth (m. Joseph Garrett), Deborah (m. Henry Merritt), John, and Isaac (m. Eunice Turner). (See Deane's Scituate, pp. 229, 230.)

Eunice Turner was the daughter of Thomas and Sarah (Hyland) Turner, who were married Jan. 6, 1652 (Scit. Rec.). Eunice was born in Scituate, Apr. 10, 1662. Her grandfather was Humphrey Turner, of Essex County, England, who came to America (name of ship unknown) and settled first in Plymouth in 1628, and in 1656 in Scituate, where he died in 1673, and is buried with many of his descendants in the old First Parish burying-ground, on which spot is creeted an imposing monument to their memory. Sarah Hyland was the daughter of Thomas Hyland (also Hiland, sometimes Highland), a native of Tenterden, Co. Kent, England, freeman in Scituate, 1638, and his wife Elizabeth. (See Deane, p. 290.) Ancestors of compiler. Among those who are working upon the records of the Turner family are Miss Ella Bates, North Scituate, Mass., and Alfred R. Turner, Malden, Mass.

Of the children of Samuel³ Litchfield, only the births of Samuel,⁴ Abigail, Sarah, and Nathaniel are found recorded at Scituate. The remaining birth dates in the list of children are stated on the authority of Deane's Scituate and Morse's Litchfield Genealogy. They were probably all born in Scituate.

Hannah⁴ Cowing, daughter of Israel Cowing (Cowen) and Hannah³ Litchfield (Josiah, ² Lawrence¹), was born in Scituate, after the death of her husband, John Allen, and thirdly, Capt. Michael Fierce: or, "widow Annal James" was the second wife of Capt. Fierce, and "widow Annal Allen" was his third wife. The compiler finds nothing to prove Mr. Pierce's assertion. Capt. Pierce's widow was formerly the wife of John Allen (see page 41). Authorities (on Family No. 12): Pierce Genealogy (F. C. Pierce, 1880); Deane's Scituate; Scituate town and church records; Bailey Genealogy (1889); Mitchell's Hist. Bridgewater, Mass.; Bridgewater vital records.

Aug. 21, 1694, Married in Scituate, Jan. 6, 1712-13, Henry Merritt, Jr., born Jan. 1, 1689-90, son of Henry3* and Deborah (Buck) Merritt of Scituate.

* Henry's Merritt was the son of John's and Elizabeth (Wyborn) Merritt, and grandson of Henry Merritt, founder of the New England family.

Henry Merritt emigrated from England to America not many years after the Pilgrims came. He is supposed to have belonged in Tenterden, Co. Kent, England. It is claimed that the name of Merritt (in an ancient form) is found as early as 1070, in Somerset County, and about 1420, in London. Dr. Christopher Merritt, a member of the Royal Academy, and one of the correspondents of Governor William Bradford, belonged to this London family. Perhaps Henry¹ Merritt was a relative of this distinguished gentleman, and through his suggestion or influence, left his native land to gain fame and wealth in the New World, but at least he became the progenitor of a very large and sturdy race of descen-

He came to Plymouth, and about 1626, with a few others (see footnote, p. 3) decided to make a new settlement about twenty miles northerly from Plymouth, and fixed upon a place, which they named Scituate. He had purchased land here of Thomas ("Goodman") Byrd, which he sold, April 10, 1628, to Nathaniel Tilden. This deed, which is recorded at Plymouth, speaks of the grantor as "Henry Merritt of Scittuate in America, Planter." It is the earliest mention of the name Scituate, which is derived from Satuit ("cold") brook, which runs through the town. "Henry Meritt" signed with an "H,"

In Scituate, Henry Merritt owned a house and lot at the corner of Greenfield Lane and the "driftway," which in 1831, and since, has been known as "Merritt's corner." He owned a large share in the New Harbor marshes; a Conjhasset partner in 1646, when he bought 1/30 of Timothy Hatherly's lands; freeman, 1638; constable, 1642; surveyor, 1643-4; owned land next to Joseph Tilden, 1649; commissioner of excise, 1650. He was called "Sr." Died in Nov., 1652; inventory, Jan. 24, 1653; amount, £121:165; 3d. This inventory named things which were jointly purchased by him and his brother, John Merritt, which remained undwided. (Plym. Probate Rec.). Nothing is known of this brother mained undwided. mained undivided. (Plym. Probate Rec.). Nothing is known of this brother John. The wife of Henry, whose name is unknown, joined the church in 1637.

Children of Henry Merritt: (1.) Henry, d. 1667; m. Judith ---; had three children, viz.: folm, Anne, and another; was able to bear arms in Scituate in 1643; freeman, Boston, 1657; creditor of estate of Mehalaled Munnings of Dortchester, 1659 (early wills of Boston); made his will, Feb. 9, 1662, leaving his property to wife, to eldest son, John, and to two other children, not named, and to grandson, Samuel Hett. (2.) Katherine, m. John Damon (see footnote, p. 63). (3.) John,² m. Apr. 3, 1655, Elizabeth, dau. Thomas and Elizabeth Wyborn of Boston, who d. John2 was able to bear arms in Scituate, 1643; administrator of will of Henry Merritt, June 6, 1654; constable, 1660; on jury, Oct. 29, 1673; land assigned to him, 1673; homestead was that of his father or near it; inquest on his body, Mch. 6, 1676, as he was killed by falling from the works on the rocks, Mch. 1, 1676; on June 7, 1677, the Court ordered that his widow, Elizabeth, should have the improvements of the estate until the children became of age. (Plym. Probate Rec.)

Seven children of John² and Elizabeth (Wyborn) Merritt: (1.) Ichabod,³ b. Mch. 1655 (2); nothing further known. (2.) Deborah, b. before Sept. 12, 1656, d. before 1677; (3.) John, b. Henry Merritt, Jr., probably died in Scituate, in 1771, as on May 13, 1771, David Nash, his son-in-law, was appointed administrator of his estate, which was rendered insolvent. (Plym. Probate Rec.) The administrator's sureties were Thomas Jenkins and Israel Damon. No heirs are mentioned. One of the items of administration is the receipt of £4, due the estate from Jonathan Merritt (probably brother of Henry, Jr.). The last item is: "Paid to Capt. Merritt's widow, 26 lbs."*

"Hannah Merritt wife of Henry Jr. bapt. 5 May 1728" (Scit. First Parish Rec.).

Henry³ Merritt (John,² Henry¹), b. Jan. 1663-4, m. 1686, Deborah Buck, dau. Lieut. Isaac Buck (see footnote, p. 100). [Douglas Merritt, Rhinebeck, N. Y. (a descendant of Thomas' Merritt of Rye, N. Y., the progenitor of another Merritt family), says that his notes give the name of the wife of Henry Merritt as Elizabeth Wyborn, b. 1666, dau. John Wyborn and Mary Hinckley (dau. Gov. Thomas Hinckley). John Wyborn was son of Thomas Wyborn (see above). Mr. Merritt is undoubtedly mistaken, for the account of the settlement of Henrys Merritt's estate (on record at Plymouth Probate) states his wife's name to be Deborah.] Henry³ left no will, and his son, Jonathan,⁴ was appointed administrator, Feb. 2, 1732-3. In the settlement, Apr. 10, 1734, of the estate, wife Deborah and all the children except Deborah are named. Seven children of Henry3 Merritt and Deborah Buck (Scit. Rec.): (1.) Jonathan,4 b. EXPLANATIONS.

The method used in the compilation and arrangement of the individual members and families in this Genealogy is that employed by the New-England Historic Genealogical Society of Boston. In the lists of children, it will be seen that a number occurring before an individual name is to refer the reader to that page, following, where that same number is found and a further account is give. These numbers serve to separate and distinguish the different families, and prevent confusion.

Unless otherwise indicated, all towns, cities, etc., are located in Wassachusetts.

The following abbreviations are used:—A., acre or acres: A. B. (or B. A.), Bachelor of Arts: A. M. (or M. As to the tracing down of female lines, the compiler has adopted the following rules: — A female line which began as a separate family kefore 18co, will be given place in this Genealogy, so as to treat of her children and grand-children, as distinct families, if the proper information to make such a division advisable, is large and important. Whatever further information regarding her descendants is entered will be found on those pages devoted to her children or grand-children. Compare families Nos. 6, 12 and 13. For a female line beginning at or about 12co, it is the intention of the compiler to trace it in families to 1900, unless some other Genealogy or Local History has treated of the same. In such a case, reference will be made to the further source of information.

Every male line of the name of Litchfield will be traced to 1900, if any descendants can be found. Some lines become extinct because of failure of male issue.

You will confer a favor upon the compiler by notifying him of all errors found in any part of this Genealogy.
